1970s

Richard C. Fedorovich, BSA '74, a Cleveland Clinic board member, and his wife, Lisa, have committed $5 million to Cleveland Clinic and Akron General. The gift will support future priorities and innovations to ensure the health system's leaders have resources to remain agile and responsive to community needs in the years to come. Akron General integrated into the Cleveland Clinic health system in 2015. Fedorovich's leadership as Akron General board chair helped bring the two together. As a result of this successful integration, more patients have been able to be served in Northeast Ohio and Akron General has developed as one of the region's top hospitals.
